Reports

Chronicler: April's Minutes are up on the Facebook page, May's minutes will be up tonight, tomorrow morning at the latest

Web-minister: Officer emails have been corrected, so An Dun Theine is spelled correctly, but there is no news on when our .org will be made public. For the time being, the .com is still up to date. Though, I still have Beggar's War posted. Should I take that down? If you are an officer and have not received an email from me to verify that your forwarder is working, you can email me at webminister@anduntheine.org with whatever email you would like your office related emails forwarded to and I will get that set up for you.

Exchequer: We have money. If you want to see details, just ask.

Herald: The heralds of Meridies are holding virtual consults, to review any designs you are considering sending in, so you have a better chance of getting approved when you submit it for real. Someone please let the Thibault's know; since they were saying they were looking to submit back in March. Our Shire has had one submission put in. We will hear back about it around May 24th. If you want to submit anything, now is a good time, things are going through faster since everyone's home.

Note: If you want to do a partial name change, you have to submit the entire new name, not just the part you want to change.

A&S: Not present

Heavy: Not present- no practices are being held during social distancing

Chatelaine: Not present

New Business:

- Thank you Trinnen for setting up the new emails. Thank you everyone for participating this week.
- A&S- we will need to verify with Sigrid (watch the .com and Facebook pages for calendar updates), but right now we are scheduled to have an A&S class next Wednesday, the 20th, and a Project Night the following Tuesday, the 26th. The class is supposed to be on making a small pouch, taught by Sigrid, or, if that falls through, Trinnen has prepared a series of videos on historically accurate lady's headdresses.
- Due to the ongoing social distancing, the fact that Pennsic has been postponed until next year, and the fact that Shires are not required to host an event every year, we will be cancelling Beggar's War this year.
